@StephenHolt I'm fairly certain every terminal-based password input I've ever encountered chose to echo nothing to the terminal. Given the security benefits and the fact that this is a well-known convention in the Unix world, I personally think echoing nothing is the right choice, unless you believe your user base is likely to be unfamiliar with the use of terminals (in which case it's ...

Many of these inputs are about ensuring that learning is developed, supported and communicated and are specifically designed to try to overcome some of the potential problems identified as preventing organisational learning. It is widely accepted that organisational learning is limited by a lack of shared language, values, knowledge and understanding (Easterby-Smith et al, 1998).
